District 61 News

A Call for Change, Unity, and Next Steps in the Face of Racial Injustice

Over 100 clergy members of different faiths, community residents and leaders, law enforcement and my colleagues in government joined me on the steps of Staten Island Borough Hall for a press conference to discuss the recent murder of George Floyd in Minneapolis, Minnesota and the negative effects of systematic racism on communities of color. All across America, in communities like the North Shore, residents are organizing peaceful protests, engaging in difficult conversations, and challenging the status quo about the level of accountability and transparency expected of police departments.

I am and will continue to be proud to stand with the residents of this district as we demand change in the battle toward justice, peace and a quality of life fit for any human being. I am committed to further proposing and voting on legislation that provides equitable opportunities for the next generation of youth including sensible criminal justice reform and voting in favor of budget allotments and initiatives that reinforce such laws. It is time for all communities to shoulder the burden of condemning racism, bigotry and divisive language when it is heard among friend groups, from family members, in workplace settings and more. There is nothing equivalent to the power of the people and we ALL have a role to play in this movement.

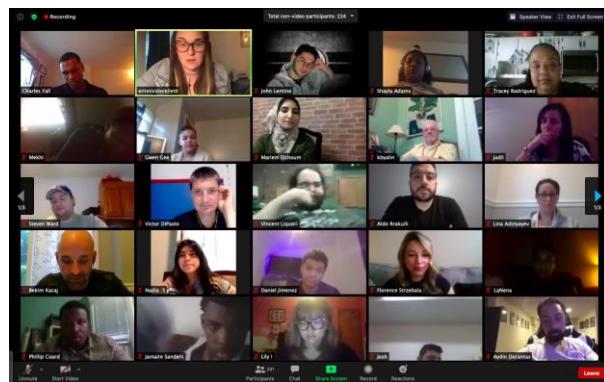

Thank you to my colleagues, Councilwoman Debi Rose, and Assemblyman Michael Cusick, the community leaders, faith leaders, residents-of all ages, and to the members of the NYPD for showing up during these trying times. We shall overcome.

Virtual Q&A Session with High School Students at Integration Charter Schools (ICS)

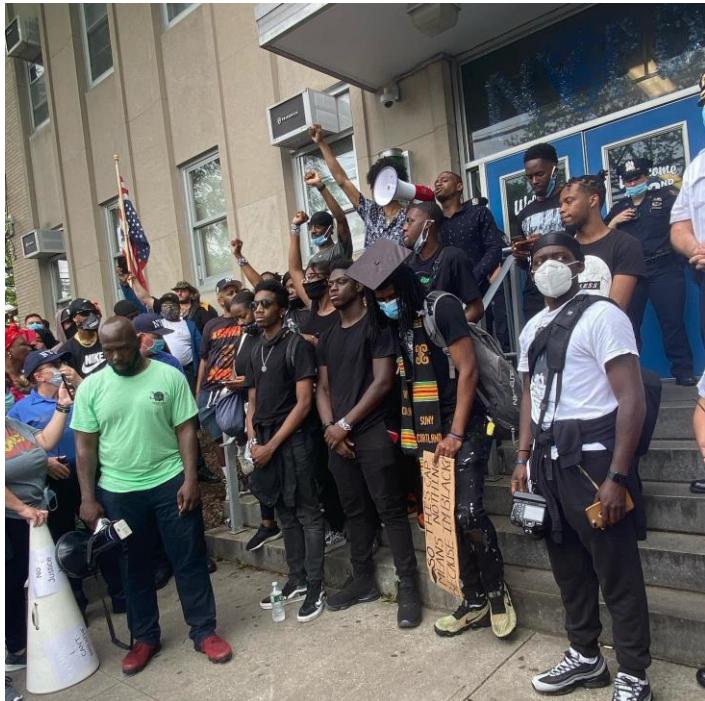

I joined a video call with nearly 300 ICS high school students and teachers to discuss important current events in our state and country. During our hour-long conversation, we discussed the different methods for the youth to use their voice and act on issues that matter most to them, including voting, protesting, and spreading information to their family members and friends. 2020 has been a difficult time for young people in our community, particularly the graduating class of students whose academic journey at their current schools have been cut short. I am constantly inspired by the students' resilience, desire to learn, and their contributions to the most pressing conversations happening in our community. Thank you to the teachers and staff of Integration Charter Schools for encouraging this open dialogue between youth of Staten Island.

Positive Community Contributions

I would like to use this week's community contributions to highlight the Young Leaders of Staten Island, a newly formed organization that was established by several youth from the North Shore following the recent deaths of George Floyd, Breonna Taylor, Ahmaud Arbery, Tony McDade and other Black individuals across the nation. Not only did these young leaders participate in Thursday's press conference at Borough Hall, where they offered words of wisdom to the community about the change they wished to see, but they also organized a peaceful protest across Staten Island. The nearly 3-hour long march, with more than 500 participants- most of whom were young activists of all races, was a call for unity and community among neighborhoods across the Island. These young leaders marched from Park Hill to the NYPD's 122nd Precinct stationhouse in New Dorp. We must continue to amplify the ideas, optimism and passion of the youth of Staten Island as we seek justice and peace for all.

Updates From Albany

Introducing Three Pieces of Legislation Related to Healthcare, COVID-19 and Civil Unrest Following the Death of George Floyd

Legislation Related to Civil Unrest

New introduction, awaiting a bill number; This bill amends the penal law, to establish the crime of travel to riot from out-of-state protestors.

- Applies to individuals that reside in other states coming into New York State to riot, cause vandalism or insight a riot. A new section would be put in place in current law reading, a person is guilty of travel to riot in the second degree making it a class E felony.
- A class E felony, is punishable up to the term and shall be fixed by the court and will not exceed four years.
- This legislation would also add a fine for;
 - First offense - $2,500
 - Second offense - $3,000
 - Third offense - $5,000

It is very clear that emotions and tensions are at an all-time high in the wake of George Floyd's senseless death. However, rioting, vandalism, and acts of violence will not solve our differences. Although this applies to New Yorker's, we cannot stand for individuals traveling to New York for the purpose of rebelling and destroying our communities that only seek to have peaceful demonstrations.

Introducing Legislation Related to Covid-19

Bill A.10470, amends the public health law, in relation to procedures for the closure, relocation or decertification of a diagnostic and treatment center.

- The operator of the health facility would have to notify the Department of Health in writing, 120 days prior to any closure, relocation or decertification.

- The operator of the health facility would also be required to submit a proposed plan on the closure, relocation or decertification for an evaluation by the Commissioner of the Department of Health.
- The operator would also be required to notify all patients and would have to comply with approved a plan until all prior patients have been notified.
- As part of the final approval of closure, relocation or decertification, the operator and the Department of Health would have to agree upon a target relocation or closure date.
- If the operator fails to notify the department or patients of the intent to cease operations, fails to submit a plan for closure or relocation they may face civil penalties.

This legislation was inspired by the untimely and unannounced closing of the West Brighton CityMD urgent care facility back in March, at the start of Coronavirus outbreak. There are many regions throughout New York State that do not have access to public hospitals, including Staten Island, many residents rely on diagnostic and treatment centers for a wide variety of medical services. These services include physicals, injury related diagnosis and care, rapid lab tests and screening, pediatric care and women's wellness needs for some of the most vulnerable residents.

During the current escalation of this healthcare crisis, the temporary or permanent closing of these facilities is a dangerous disservice to surrounding communities. Having residents who may be elderly or lack reliable transportation to travel to alternative facilities during heightened social distancing, stay at home orders, or any other circumstance is detrimental to the well-being of all New York residents.

Bill A.10476, amends the general municipal law, in relation to line of duty sick leave for first responders due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Any police officer, firefighter, medical technician, advanced emergency medical technician or paramedic who was exposed to and tested positive to the pandemic virus shall be granted a line-of-duty sick leave starting on the date they are diagnosed or began displaying symptoms of a pandemic virus.

- The employee would be compensated at his or her regular rate of pay and such leave of absence would be granted without loss of accrued sick leave.
- The employer would be forbidden from taking any adverse personal action against an employee as long as the employee demonstrates proof that he or she was exposed to the virus on the job or allows disclosure of medical records as proof to work-related line of duty contraction.

The coronavirus pandemic has demonstrated that during any crisis or pandemic, first responders are essential to supporting our communities as civilians' shelter-in-place. They are often needed out in the streets or in our health care facilities interacting with healthy and sick New Yorkers.

EMS workers are struggling to keep up with the influx of 9-1-1 calls, police departments are facing a worst-case scenario with large numbers of the workforce out sick or in quarantine, and already-short-handed fire departments are keeping communities safe amid volunteer shortages. We need to do everything we can to assist these brave men and women who help our communities, especially during a crisis.
