TAKE ME HOME™

will give Rotterdam families peace of mind

"Like many parents of children with autism, one of my biggest fears is that my son goes missing and is not able to communicate basic information, like who he is and where he lives. After seeing the success of the 'Take Me Home' program in other areas, I worked with the Rotterdam Police Department to make this vital resource available to local families."

– Assemblyman
Angelo Santabarbara

If you have any questions about this or any other community issue, contact:

How does it work?

Take Me Home is a lifesaving resource now available at no cost for families affected by autism, or other disabilities that may impair communication skills, including seniors living with Alzheimer's.

- A parent or guardian registers an individual in advance with local police.

- This information becomes quickly and easily accessible to police officers if the individual goes missing or is lost.

Enrollment is easy, and it's free!

Download an application from www.rotterdampd.org, complete and return it to the Rotterdam Police Department with a recent photograph. Applications can also be emailed to takemehome@rotterdamny.org.

Questions: Call Lt. Jeffrey Collins at 355-7331, ext. 288, or simply call my office and I'll be happy to assist you.

"The program will be an invaluable tool that will allow the Rotterdam Police Department the opportunity to better serve the people of Rotterdam and better protect our most at-risk citizens."

– James Hamilton, Rotterdam Chief of Police
