"I'm fighting to make Central New York more business-friendly and to help make it easier for our families to succeed right here at home."

Assemblyman Al Stirpe:
Business growth and a strong middle class are key to Central New York's success

Assemblyman Al Stirpe

Investing in our local businesses

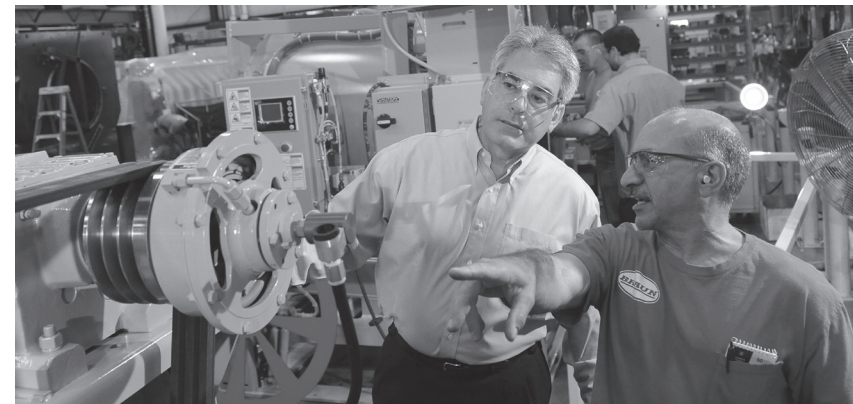

Securing critical funding to help create and maintain jobs

- Inficon in East Syracuse - $3.5 million
- G.A. Braun in North Syracuse - $1.5 million
- Stickley in Manlius - $975,000
- Byrne Dairy's Ultra Dairy in Onondaga - $750,000

"Prior to receiving this grant, Ultra Dairy was seriously considering relocating out of state. As a result of the grant, we were able to expand our production capabilities and retain jobs in Central New York."

-Nick Marsella, Sr VP. COO, Byrne Dairy

"Economic development programs help businesses like ours expand and invest in communities throughout the region. These investments lead to greater job creation, job retention and local economic growth." -Joseph B. Gudenburr IV, President of G.A. Braun, Inc.

"With critical funding and support from the state we are able to expand our operations to handle new product lines and business opportunities right here in Central New York, ensuring the jobs our community depends on stay at home." -Aminy I. Audi, CEO, L. & J. G. Stickley, Inc.

Assemblyman Al Stirpe

is balancing the needs of Central New York businesses and families

Cut taxes on business to spur job growth

- Eliminated the income tax and cut property taxes on manufacturers
- Slashed the corporate tax rate to attract new businesses
- Cut an energy tax, saving customers $600 million

Investing in Central New York's economic future

- Helped create a tax-free zone at Onondaga Community College, to bring new business and jobs to Central New York
- Secured $600,000 for advanced manufacturing training to help workers get the necessary skill set to secure good-paying jobs
- Helped secure nearly $67 million for local projects through the Central New York Regional Economic Development Council (CNYREDC)

Helping hardworking families

- Increased the minimum wage to help invest in our workforce
- Secured a $350 rebate check for families with children
- Provided property tax rebate checks for homeowners
- Lowered the income tax rate for middle-class families

"We need to take a balanced approach to improving Central New York's economy, because when businesses thrive so do our hardworking families."

— Al Stirpe

ADVOCATING FOR A BETTER FUTURE FOR FAMILIES

- Fighting for the full Women's Equality Act
- Supporting equal pay for equal work, because women shouldn't make less because of gender, and when women succeed, families succeed
- Advocating for paid family leave so families can take time off to care for loved ones without risking their economic stability
